Voluntary Contributions to Educational Trips

At a meeting of the Governing Body in September, I submitted a proposal that St Patrick's would not ask for voluntary contributions towards educational trips for this year. There are several reasons for this, but mainly we believe that the children of St Patrick's need access to enrichment activities without the 'pressure' of parents/carers feeling the need to contribute financially. Especially in the current cost of living crisis.

I am delighted to confirm that the Governors approved the proposal. Therefore, the only trip parents will need to pay for is the Residential at Kingswood.

The staff have produced a list of trips that will take place. In some cases, the trip will be brought to school. For example, the recent stone age and partake productions.

Of course, that said, any contributions are always welcome. Each class, at some point, will undertake a fund-raising event which I am sure parents will join in with. This may be bun sales, sponsored runs etc. so please keep an eye on your class dojo for information from the teacher.

Thank you for all the parents who have contributed in the past. We will review the situation next year.
